

I am a paying customer of XM radio, and I gladly part with my hard-earned money for the enjoyment and practicality I receive from XM Radio. I hate talk radio, but like local weather and traffic. With XM, I can tune into a specific station, hear what I need, and then switch back to music I enjoy. With regular AM/FM stations, I have to put up with banter, commercials, and the fates to know if I will get the information I need... or if I just missed it and have to wait 10 more minutes.

Because of this annoyance, I never listen to AM or FM stations. I have only listened to CDs for the last 10 years in my car... and just this week I got a new car with XM Radio. At last, radio I can actually ENJOY!